<https://www.mass.gov/doc/stop-aquatic-hitchhikers-handout/download>
- Grant
- Tree clearing and clearing area of the floating ferns and typha or cattail “cat-o’-nine-tails” to the right of the cement dock for beach wading area.
What are these plants good for?
The rhizomes of the cattails are good for stabilizing soil. They can help minimize bank erosion on steep or wind-swept shorelines. Likewise, cattail stands in the upper end of retention ponds slow down heavy storm-water velocities and reduce the risk of erosion.
- Any other pond business
- Adjournment

Next scheduled meeting: TBA
